apolis to represent DePauw at the contest, and in order that they shall do their share in the rooting, a large number of megaphones have been bought and these will be delivered at Tomlinson hall. Westhafter is backed by the entire student body and with this support, he will, no doubt, be able to make a creditable showing.

According to the rotation of positions provided for by the State Oratorical Association constitution, Westhafter will speak third, Butler and Hanover preceding DePauw's man. The Rev. H. C. Clippinger, D. D., pastor of the Edwin Ray Methodist church of Indianapolis will pronounce the invocation at the contest and S. Paul Jones, president of the State association will preside. The contest will begin at 8 o'clock.

What Westhafter Says.

"What do you think of the coming contest?" Mr. Westhafter was asked as he came yesterday afternoon from his daily workout under Professor Gough.

"I'll tell you I appreciate fully the co-operation the DePauw students are showing," said Mr. Westhafter, evading in his answer the part the representation of the old gold will play in the program Friday evening, "the DePauw yells and songs are going to help. I couldn't imagine of better support than the student body is giving this year, and I appreciate it thoroughly."

Professor Gough's Statement.

Professor Gough heard Westhafter in his last rehearsal before the contest, yesterday and expressed himself as well satisfied with the final work.

"No one," said the professor last night, "could have put more faithful and conscientious work on a production than has Mr. Westhafter. His oration is thoroughly logical and one that will appeal forcibly in an emotional way as well. A strong point in Mr. Westhafter's delivery is his clean cut enunciation. He has an easy manner and I can't conceive of anyone among the contestants being able to surpass this delivery of his."

"We all realize," continued the professor, "that the six schools will fight hard against DePauw but I am satisfied with the results obtained by Mr. Westhafter, by his continual work. He is in best of shape now—he is not over-trained. As I told him I am confident that he will do himself justice and bring honor to DePauw in the contest Friday."

TRAIN TO BE RUN.

Final Arrangements Made to Carry DePauw Delegation to Indianapolis.

Arrangements have been completed with the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern Railroad in preparation for handling the DePauw excursion to the state oratorical contest tomorrow.

The seventy-five cent excursion tickets will be valid on the 9:40 car and all other cars, including the limited cars by the payment of the usual excess fare. The special train composed of as many cars as will be necessary to accommodate the remaining delegation will leave Greencastle promptly at one o'clock.

The return excursion will leave Indianapolis about eleven o'clock but tickets will be good on the 11:30 car.

ADDRESS IS WELL RECEIVED

Meharry Hall is Crowded to Hear President-to-be F. J. McConnell's Lecture on "The Honesty of Lincoln"—G. A. R.'s Hold Honor Seats on Platform.

HON. JESSE W. WEIK PRESIDES

Meharry Hall was filled to its utmost capacity last night by citizens, students and visitors, anxious to hear the address of Francis J. McConnell, DePauw's new president. The platform was decorated with large American flags loaned by the Daughters of the American Revolution and the platform seats were honored by the G. A. R., who attended in a body.

After making a few announcements, Dr. Gobin introduced Jesse W. Weik who acted as chairman of the evening. With a characteristic short humorous talk Mr. Weik spoke of the subject of the evening's meeting and then with a few words he introduced Dr. F. J. McConnell in his first appearance before Greencastle people on such an occasion.

Dr. McConnell showed himself to be a very strong and forceful talker and his address on "The Honesty of Lincoln" was well appreciated by the large audience. He spoke for an hour and forty-five minutes and held the attention of his listeners every moment of that time. The address is one which has attracted much attention throughout the East and it is the one which at the request of the Indiana State Legislators he will deliver at the State House tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. McConnell said in part: "People call Lincoln 'Honest Abe' but it is not so much of his personal honesty as of his deep ethical traits that people think when they speak of him in this regard. He was characterized by a willingness to keep his mind open to the truth. It was one of his fundamental principles to stand for the rights of the people."

"One of the greatest ways that Lincoln showed his honesty was by his brooding mind. In this he looked at everything from every conceivable standpoint before he took action on it. The joking habit of which so many people complain was only to veil a serious purpose. This gave the matter an opportunity to soak in before he should take definite action. While his mind was brooding it was giving birth to a ferocious determination."

"He took everything into account. It was said that he never closed a case until he had looked at it from every side. When it came to the war it was as a physician who understood the whole field. But the specialists came and had he heeded them it would have carried the country to destruction."

"This faculty gave to him a certain sense of perspective. He was able to put the emphasis in the right place. He saw that it was his duty to push the war through at any cost. In his search for the truth he put all aside. Lincoln was a superstitious man. But he never tried to decide things on the basis of the dreams. Lincoln was an ambitious man, he desired much to become President for a second term but he would not change his policy one letter in order to secure his re-election. He was sensitive and he felt slights severely but he rose above them in every instance. Lastly he was venturesome. He would go where men had never gone before. He was noted for undertaking great responsibility and riding down opposition. He looked responsibility squarely in the eyes."

"In order to bring in the truth he exercised his personality in compelling men to do what seemed to him the best. He compelled the Cabinet to do as he wished. He pardoned men so as almost to be detrimental to the military system of the war. But when it came to pushing the war he was the greatest man that has been seen since the beginning of Christendom. He searched for a long time for a general capable of pushing the war to a close and at last fixed upon Grant the great General of the West. As Lincoln said 'the Democracy is on trial for its life and there must be a commander who will chew and choke and chew and choke until the war is ended.'"

"I say that the people were right when the spoke of Lincoln as 'Honest Abe'."

Announces Engagement.

Cards were received here yesterday announcing the engagement of Forest Minch, of Chalmers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Minch, of Salisbury Street, and Miss Julia Layne Preston, of Greencastle. After their marriage the young couple will reside on the groom's farm near Chalmers. Mr. Minch is a graduate of the old Oakwood high school and was quite prominent in athletics during his high school career. He is now engaged in farming near Chalmers. Miss Preston is quite prominent in society circles in Greencastle.—Lafayette Journal.

WATCHING THE COURT BILL

Delegation of Brazilians in Indianapolis to See That the Separate Circuit Bill Does Not Get Lost in The Shuffle in the House of Representatives.

2 CANDIDATES FOR PROSECUTOR

A delegation of Brazilians went to Indianapolis this morning to watch the progress of the Clay-Morgan bill, which went through the last stage in the Senate Monday evening and which is now before the House.

It is not believed that the House committee which has charge of the Royce bill will hold any hearings on the bill as this matter was threshed out before committee when the hearing on the Kayser bill was held.

It was supposed that the Royce bill would be reported in the House today for first reading but other business may delay the action on the Clay-Morgan judicial bill for several days. A delegation of Brazilians will remain in the Capital City and watch the bill closely until the House has put it through and it is up to the governor for his signature. It is not thought that there is any danger of the bill being killed, however.

As the Royce bill carries an emergency clause it will go into effect the minute that Governor Marshall attaches his signature and the appointment of a prosecuting attorney for the separate circuit in Clay County and of a Judge for Putnam-Owen Circuit will be necessary.

It is generally believed that Col. Matson, of Greencastle, will be appointed Judge for the Putnam-Owen Circuit, while in this county, Bernar C. Craig and Deputy Prosecutor S. W. Lee are the candidates for Prosecuting Attorney.—Brazil News.

ARRANGEMENTS NOT MADE

Funeral of John Ford, One of Greencastle's Older Citizens Who Died Wednesday, Will Not be Held Until the Son in Texas is Heard From.

DEATH DUE TO 'LUNG TROUBLE

No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral of John Ford, one of Greencastle's oldest citizens who died at noon yesterday. The relatives here are awaiting the message of T. J. Ford, of Houston, Tex., son of the deceased, and in all probability the services will not be held before he arrives in this city.

The deceased had not been in good health for some time. Eight years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, which was followed by two more last spring. Since then he has been suffering of heart trouble but his death was directly due to congestion of the lungs. He was born in Monroe County eighty-two years ago. The early part of his life was spent on a farm near Bainbridge and since 1876 he had been a resident of Greencastle. He was a member of the Christian Church.

The deceased leaves a widow, three years his junior, three sons and four daughters, namely: Joseph, Etiah, Mo., T. J., Houston, Texas; B. B., Indianapolis; Mrs. Willard Bell, Bloomington; Mrs. Theodore Menke, Etiah, Mo., and Misses Lou Ella and Lon Ford at home. He had one brother, Isaac Ford, of Bainbridge.

MRS. STEPHENSON ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Andrew Stephenson charmingly entertained the Alpha Phi Wednesday afternoon. The warmth and hospitality of "Rosa Bower" was in great contrast to the blustering wind and weather without. A very much enjoyed feature was the reading of extracts from Mrs. Stephenson's diary written while she and her family lived in New England. Games and the singing of fraternity songs caused the afternoon to pass all too quickly. Delicious and bountiful refreshments were served by the hostess. Besides the active chapter there were present Mrs. C. T. Johnson of Mt. Vernon, Ind., Miss Joyce Bridges of Plainfield and Mrs. N. Waring Barnes of Greencastle.

DEATH OF ED HIBBITT

The death of Ed. Hibbitt, one of Greencastle's most popular and substantial pioneer business men occurred early this afternoon at his home on Locust Street. Mr. Hibbitt was 78 years old. General disability and old age were the causes of his death. The funeral arrangements have not been made at the time of going to press of the Herald. Mr. Hibbitt had been ill for several weeks. He leaves one daughter and three sons.

MAY KILL THE COURT BILL

Several Attorneys and Others Who Are Opposed to the Separation of Putnam and Clay and the Morgan and Owen Judicial Districts, Will Endeavor to Defeat Measure.

HOPE TO WIN IN THE HOUSE

Several attorneys and others in the several counties affected will endeavor to kill the bill in the Legislature which gives Morgan and Clay Counties separate circuits and links Putnam with Owen in a new judicial district.

There has been some talk of this all along but within the past two days the rumor has been gaining rapidly and it was stated positively today that an attempt to kill the measure in the House would be made.

Men from each of the counties concerned will wage war on the measure, which has already passed the Senate. They hope to win the fight in the lower house of the legislature and as there is a tendency among the members of the lower house to kill anything that will add expense to the state the leaders hope to gain their end. Their argument will be that there is no need for separate circuits.

VAN TO STRAIGHTEN TRACKS

Reliable Information is to the Effect That the Pennsylvania Line Will Start Its Double Tracking This Spring—Will Spend Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

TO EVADE THE REELSVILLE CURVE

We have it from a thoroughly reliable source that the Vandalia Railroad Company has decided to make the improvement in double tracking their line east of this city this coming spring, summer and fall. This double tracking means more than the statement would indicate. It means that from a short distance east of Harmony the road will construct an entirely new roadbed which will evade the Reelsville hills and curves, going quite a distance south of Reelsville and changing the entire route of the road from Harmony to Greencastle. The heaviest work will be done between Harmony and the river, where, for almost a mile there will be a fill of an average height of seventy-five feet.

Greencastle will get nearly all of the benefits of this work because of it being the supply point for this section of the country and also the best available market. The improvement mentioned will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, and several hundred men will be given employment, most of whom will probably be brought here. It means that hundreds of thousands of dollars will be spent here in our midst.

The riddle that Samson put forth was not solved by those to whom he put it. Can you solve it? Here it is "Out of the eater came forth meat; out of the strong came forth sweetness." It will be solved Saturday night at the opera house moving picture show.

REGARDING OPTION APPEAL.

The county option repeals in the House, otherwise the brewers' allies, are making themselves ridiculous in the eyes of the whole people of the State. There has been yell after yell let out about "standing by the platform" from the alleged keeper of the Democratic conscience but here comes a bill, the Tomlinson bill, reported by the majority of the committee for passage after taking a good side swipe at the bill and the net result of this affair that is reported for passage is this:

Ward option in cities.
Town option in towns.
Towns in or in any way.
Repeal of county option law.
If that isn't enough to damn this bunch of statesmen?

But that isn't all. The bill pretends to limit the number of saloons to one for every five hundred inhabitants, and the census for this purpose is taken by multiplying the highest number of votes cast at the last election for any one office by four. That would get the population high enough, God knows. But that isn't all. If there are, when this bill is passed, one saloon in a town for every fifty persons, the commissioners shall be authorized to grant licenses for a number equal to the number in force in that city at the time this bill is passed. That would be a limit, wouldn't it? Take Terre Haute for instance; at present there are enough saloons there on the basis for one saloon for every five hundred population to make a population of the town 150,000. What a farce these law makers are making of things.

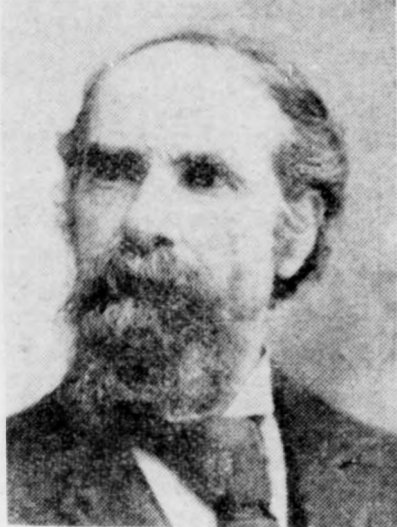

They need not think they can fool the ordinary people any more than they can the brewers.
Two years ago, the people of the State wanted $1,000 license. The brewers would not let them have it. The liquor people got worse than $1,000 license for interfering.
The same is certain to occur again. The brewers domination, or attempt at domination in the present legislature—their efforts to repeal county option and to make a farce of limiting the number of saloons means "state-wide prohibition in 1910."

The brewers and distillers have no regard for any other interest but their own. There is not a single argument in favor of the saloon anywhere. The saloon interest is not going to be allowed to control the state.

REPEAL OF THE COUNTY OPTION LAW NOW MEANS STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION IN 1910.

The Secret of Long Life.
A French scientist has discovered a secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. It is a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c at the Owl drug store and Red Cross drug store.

OBITUARY

H. B. Conkling.

Hiram B. Conkling died at his home, 1348 Penn Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa, at 2:30 a. m., January 15, after an illness of three weeks. Death was due to a complication of diseases resulting from a severe attack of typhoid fever and terminating in pneumonia.

Mr. Conkling spent a number of the years of his early life in Greencastle. He was the youngest son of Aunt Rebecca Conkling, well known to the older residents of Greencastle. He was in business in Greencastle for a number of years and spent his early married life here.

Mr. Conkling was born in Connellsville, Pa., in 1839. He moved from that state with his parents, William and Rebecca Conkling to Indiana while yet a young man. He was married in Greencastle to Miss Sarah M. Ellis and spent his early married life here. He moved to Des Moines in 1881 and immediately went into the photograph business, which he continued to run until two years ago when he retired from active business life.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, W. R. Conkling of Jennings, La., D. W. Conkling of Des Moines, Ia., and one daughter, Mrs. J. N. Albright also of Des Moines.

The funeral services were held from his late residence 1348 Penn Avenue, Des Moines, Sunday, January 17, at 2:30 o'clock; interment at Laurel Hill Cemetery, Des Moines.

Susanna Chadd.

Susanna Chadd, daughter of Thomas and Cynthia Chadd, was born May 12, 1822 in Bourbon County, Kentucky. When she was three months old her parents moved to Putnam County, Indiana, and the greater part of her life has been spent in this county and Hendricks County. At the early age of sixteen years she became a member of the Missionary Baptist church at Winchester, Indiana, and had since lived a consistent christian life, a beautiful example for her family and many friends. On July 27, 1847, she was married to Washack Fitt Simmons. To this union were born eight children: Linzie Ford, Richard, Cynthia Jane, Susan Elizabeth, James Thomas, William M., Sally Ann and Annas. Six of the children preceded her to the grave but there are left to mourn her demise, the husband, daughter, son, daughter-in-law, one grandson, one granddaughter, all living in this vicinity and one brother, James Chadd of Hendricks County, together with other relatives and a host of friends.

Mrs. Simmons had been an invalid and constant sufferer for more than thirty-five years but she bore her suffering with a patience and fortitude known only to those who put their trust in Him who doeth all things well. She has gone to a well deserved rest leaving a broken home for while we all miss her, it is hard to feel the husband, who with her, in sickness and in health, for nearly sixty-three years, has lived so happily and for the daughter, whose whole life has been one of loving service for her mother. She was indeed a good wife, a fond mother and a faithful friend.

Grandma Simmons as she was familiarly known, fell asleep on January 30, after an illness of three weeks, caused by grip and complications, at the age of 86 years, 8 months and 18 days.

"Signed and evening star," And one clear call for me; And may there be no moaning of the bar, When I put out to sea. But such a tide as moaning seems asleep, Too full for sound and foam, When that which drew from out the boundless deep,

Turns again home,
Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For tho' from out the bounds of time and place

The flood may bear me far,
I come to see my Pilot face to face
When I have cross'd the bar."

Funeral was preached by the Rev. Martha Runyan at the residence February 1. Interment at Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

In Memory.

In loving remembrance of Mary E. Clodfelter, who departed this life February 8, 1904.

We miss thee from our home, dear mother,

We miss thee from thy place;
A shadow o'er our hearts is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.
We miss thy kind and willing hands,
The fond and earnest care;
Our home is sad and lonely without thee.

We miss thee everywhere.
Often do we think of you,
For to us you have been kind and true.
Never shall thy memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Round thy grave where you are laid.

Five years have passed; Oh how we miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
Little do they know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Husband and daughters.

In Memory of Harris Conklin.

Died Feb. 4, 1908.

How sad and lonely is our home
Since baby went away,
From heaven above we hope
To see some day.

It was so hard to give him up
He was so bright and fair
But God in his great wisdom
Did a home for him prepare.

He is resting now in heaven above
In a mansion bright and rare;
That Jesus shed his blood and died
That we might all live there.

One year has quickly passed away
Was on a cold February day
We followed him to the grave-yard,
To lay him beneath the cold clay.

Although our hearts are breaking,
And our hair may turn to gray
We know if we trust in God
We will meet in heaven some day.

The Man-Fish.

There used to be traditions among the sailors of mermen at sea, half women and half fish, and there are fishes which may have given rise to the belief, from their resemblance to human beings. One of these is called the man-fish.

This animal inhabits the mouths of the Amazon, Orinoco, and other South American rivers. Its name (manatee) has reference to the peculiar form of its swimming paws; these are composed of soft parts, and a membrane which infolds the bonds of the hands and fingers; but in the manatee four flat nails are seen attached to the edge of the paw.

The tail also is peculiar being about one fourth the length of the body and shape. The effect has been deepened oval shaped not unlike that of the otter. The head is round, attached to the body without a neck; the muzzle, in which the nostrils are placed, is large and fleshy; the upper lip, cleft, and bristled at the end; the lower lip much shorter and the mouth small.

When seen at a distance, with the anterior part of the body out of the water, they are sometimes taken for some creature approaching to human shape. The effect has been deepened by the thick set hairs of the muscle, giving somewhat the appearance of human hair, or a beard. Thus, the Spanish and the Portuguese give the manatee a name which signifies woman fish; and the Dutch call it the dudong baardmanetse, or little bearded man.

Days of Razorless Shaving.

Razorless shaving was well known to the ancients. Dionysius, the tyrant of Syracuse, who had very good reason for not trusting a barber near his throat, invented a method of burning off his beard with glowing walnut shells. It is supposed that Dionysius did not succeed in effecting a very close shave. The effeminate young men of decadent Rome objecting to the razor, secured the desired smoothness by resorting to all manner of depilatory plasters and ointments. There is much amusing reference to these in the epigrams of Martial, who made merciless fun of these timid dandies.

Soldier Barks Death Plot.

It seemed to J. A. Stone, a civil war veteran, of Kemp, Tex., that a plot existed between a desperate lung trouble and the grave to cause his death. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me, in spite of all remedies, for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which restored my health completely. I now weigh 178 pounds." For severe Colds, Obsolete Coughs, Hemorrhages, Asthma, and to prevent Pneumonia its unrivaled. 50c and 1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Owl drug store and Red Cross drug store.

To her tongue it felt just like a pimple. Said the doctor, "It's awfully simple. To give you relief, But it's my firm belief That it's merely the back of your dimple." —Lippincott's.

TIME TO SELL THE POULTRY.

There is always a time to market your poultry when most profit can be made. That time has arrived within the first four months of the existence of undesirable not-to-be retained cockerels. Every cockerel that is grown, not intended to be kept for breeding purposes, or for selling for breeding purposes, or to be made use of for exhibition, should be killed and sent to market as soon as he has reached broiler or frying size, says the Country Gentleman. Pullet should be sent to market in the fall, as soon as you can decide the desirability of so doing. It never proves profitable to retain in your possession a pullet that is not likely to produce eggs during her first winter, or one that is not strong, vigorous and healthy. These can be marked as soon as this conclusion has been arrived at. All cocks that have been used in the breeding yards should be slaughtered and sent to market as soon as the period for hatching the chicks has passed in the spring. Only those should be retained which are most desirable to be used for exhibition or breeding purposes in the future. As soon as the cocks are removed from the females and kept away from them, the egg product will be much better.

All old fowls that are not profitable to be kept for egg producing, or to lay eggs for hatching, or any purpose whatever, should be dressed for market as soon as their usefulness is ended. No fowl, old or young, should ever be sent to market unless it has been thoroughly fattened for the purpose. They can be fattened by keeping them confined in small yards with roosting pens and being fed on rich, fattening foods from 14 to 21 days. One-half their original weight can be added to a carcass if properly cared for and fed in this way. The best way to feed them is to use a mush mixture, made either of sweet skimmed milk, sour milk, buttermilk, or any kind of milk that can be obtained. Whenever sour milk or buttermilk is used, it should be mixed well with a paddle, thoroughly warmed through—never boiled or cooked, for this spoils it for the purpose; then mixed with the meal, to be composed of one-half finely-ground corn meal, the rest ground oats, bran and middlings. This should be mixed into the well-warmed milk until it is a very thick mush. The mush should be fed to the fowls in troughs, as much as they will eat up clean three or four times a day. Never feed water, and only a little green food, with plenty of grit and charcoal during this process of feeding.

When the fowls are killed, they should be hung up by the legs, stuck in the roof of the mouth, and dry-picked immediately after being killed while the body is yet warm. A vigorous movement of the hand readily detaches all the feathers from the carcass. Some prefer to scald and pluck. Either way will do—dry-picking preferred. Always plump the carcass in cold water after the animal heat has left it before sending to market. Crate and pack separate sizes and colors in different parts of the box, never promiscuous sizes, shapes and colors all together, as they do not sell so well in the market.

Ducks and geese should be thoroughly fattened in much the same way, killed and dressed before being sent to market. Never offer stock for sale in the market unless it is well fattened and nicely dressed. It is estimated that 220-odd million dollars' worth of dressed poultry of all kinds were sold in the markets of the United States last year. This represents the price obtained by the grower. If all this poultry had been properly fed and finished and dressed for the purpose it would have brought at least one-third more, in other words, care in feeding and marketing the products would have placed $100,000,000 more in the pockets of the growers that they did not obtain, but a portion of which was obtained by those who did fatten and finish the products after purchase.

Uses For Old Paper

The tissue paper that comes around wrapped garments in boxes can be ironed and used for cutting patterns. It can be dampened and thrown on the floor when sweeping is done, to collect dust. As a window or glass polish it cannot be equalled. If you must remain away from home for several days and have a fine plant wet it thoroughly and fill the crock with saturated tissue paper which will retain moisture and keep the earth damp for several days. Pack it down well on the earth. Save the waxed paper in cracker boxes to tie over jam and jelly glasses. It can also be used to line bread and cake boxes. Meat placed on it can be laid on the ice. The baking table will need less washing if papers are plentifully used to catch the flour and sugar sifted about. When shoes get damp, fill them with tissue paper and it will absorb all moisture. Folded sheets of tissue paper can be used to soften the inside of a shoe. Newspapers or old tissue paper should be used to wipe grease from pans and kettles before they are washed. Cover the wire mattress with newspapers, then an old quilt to prevent the springs from marking the bed tick.

A shabby coat is responsible for many a man's failure to get a good job when he most needs it.

YEAR'S FOOD FOR TRAVELERS.

Some Surprising Figures from an Atlantic Line—Cost was $4,000,000—Beer by the Half Million Gallons.

It must be the gyroscope attachment on the modern transatlantic liner, or else the ball bearings on which they run, which has reduced the proverbial amount of sea sickness among the passengers. If it shall turn out that they do not have a gyroscope attachment and navigation has nothing to do with ball bearings, readers are respectfully requested to supply their own explanation. That an explanation is due comes to one's understanding after only a little examination of the food figures relating to 1907, picturesquely set forth by the chief steward of one of the big lines.

Seasick passengers, no matter how many of them are carried, could not comfortably consume food of which the wholesale cost was more than $4,000,000. This is seen at once when it is noted that the total expense for coal on the same line was but $7,000,000, and of course none of the boilers was seasick and their consuming capacity is notoriously greater than any passenger, no matter how good an appetite he has.

Before noting some of the figures of food it is pleasing to observe some of those relating to beverages. Now as to champagne, which is said to be an excellent cure and for that matter a preventive of seasickness, passengers last year pulled the plugs out of only a few more than 51,000 bottles of champagne. When it comes to claret the figures jump so respectably that it is seen that a man may raise a thirst where a west of Suez as well as east. Of that cheerful and ruddy beverage the first class passengers consumed 129,209 bottles. That sounds pretty good, but the consumption by the third class passengers makes it appear a mere trifle by comparison, for those in the steerage joyfully drank not less than 121,297 gallons of claret, presumably of the variety known as petit bleu, about which there is a song which the Paris students sing when inspired by it.

There is something (observing this just as the prohibitionists have nominated their ticket, rather appalling to read that of the various grades of brandy the passengers consumed 20,641 bottles and 73,384 gallons. But these are after all trifling nips when we come to look at the figures relating to beer, for of that beverage more than half a million gallons were drunk, and it is not reported that the quartermasters had any unusual police duty to perform at that.

The recent installation of the la carte system in the restaurants of the modern liners accounts for an amazing growth in the consumption of delicacies, such as were seldom found on even the best ships when the business of feeding passengers was exclusively table d'hôte. Restaurant diners on the liners whose figures are being considered consumed many, many thousand partidges, snipe, quails, pheasants, grouse, canvasback ducks. They demanded literally many hundreds of thousands of live lobsters and crawfish, of fresh little necks, bluepoints and softshell crabs. They consumed such a quantity of green turtle soup that the chefs had to use up 13,407 pounds of fresh turtle in its making.

Coming around to the more substantial articles of diet it is found that of fresh beef there were used 8,311,927 pounds, and of pork and veal and mutton about three-quarters of a million pounds of each. Potatoes to go with these weighed in excess of 10,000 tons, a very fair cargo in itself.

The passengers seem to begin the day with hearty appetites, as well as going to lunch and dinner in the same blessed condition. They consumed of eggs six and a half million and of calves' liver and bacon an appropriate quantity to supplement the eggs, and with their morning toast 216,508 tins of marmalade and other such sweets.

And if these figures were not proof enough that Lloyd's should make a very low rate of insurance against seasickness these days it is noted that besides what smoking material passengers took on board with them, 2,327,225 cigars and packages of cigarettes were had from the smoking room steward. It is interesting to note in conclusion that while the consumption of beer, wine and spirituous liquor indicates pretty generous living, figuring on the basis of all the passengers carried for the year each passenger consumed after all only five-sixths of a gallon of such cheering beverages, while the average consumption of mineral water was a full gallon. These figures do not include 76,223 bottles of sterilized milk, which were dealt out to the children on board.—New York Sun.

A railway bank has been opened in Peking under the direction of Li Chintz, a son of Li Hung Chang. Its special object is railway finance. One never sees a bolsterously drunk person in a Swiss town, except in the tourist season, and then the offender invariably proves to be a foreigner.

The Wisconsin cashier who stole $94,000 from his bank to wed a London girl may find it necessary to have a better excuse to offer to the jury.

As showing how favorable to camphor growth the soil and climate of Florida are a newspaper of that State tells of a tree planted by Captain J. P. Renfro of Richland. It is 17 years old, 40 feet high, its branches cover 40 feet, and its diameter 12 inches above the ground is four feet. The hills around Richland seem to be specially adapted to the growth and development of the camphor tree in its highest state. The tree becomes useful for the production of the gum in a few years after planting.

CALENDAR IS COMPLETED

REVISE RHETORIC REQUIREMENT

Two matters of importance were decided Tuesday at the regular meeting of the faculty: the calendar for the school year of 1909-1910 was completed and the requirements in rhetoric were revised.

Heretofore two terms of rhetoric have been required of all students and a third term's work for those not receiving a grade of 3 or higher. Under the new ruling a full year's work will be required of all students.

The calendar during the coming school year will closely follow that of the present year. The opening day will, however, be one week later and the spring vacation will be somewhat shortened.

The calendar is as follows:
Sept. 20, Registration begins.
Dec. 23, First term's examinations close.
Jan. 4, Registration for second term.
March 17, Second term's examinations close.
March 23, Registration for third term.
June 8, Commencement day.

FRESHMEN DOFF CAPS

And Adopt Old Gold Shirt as Class Garment

At a freshman meeting held in McHarry Hall Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock the former action of the class in adopting gold caps with purple buttons as the class insignia was reconsidered and an old gold army shirt was chosen instead. The chief objection to the caps was that the girls objected to them. The suggestion of the old gold shirt was a close second to the caps when they were adopted and when the stand of the girls against them was known this idea easily passed. The shirts are to be of the same style for the boys and the girls, being the army pattern, made of French flannel with brass buttons.

They will be worn with a purple tie on which will be embroidered in old gold the class numerals.

The time for the coming out of the class in their new garb was not definitely stated but it is thought that Easter Sunday will be the day determined upon.

Effect of Iron on Digestion
Organic Salts Seriously Check Action of Stomach's Juices.

In an inaugural dissertation published at Berlin Dr. A. Dueterhoff records the results of some experiments bearing on this subject. One gramme of fibrin was added to 20 cubic centimetres of artificial gastric juice, and during digestion equivalent quantities of various proportions of iron were also added. At the end of the process the undigested fibrin was dried and weighed, and the quantity of soluble synotin in the solution was also established.

The time of digestion was in one case three hours and ten minutes; in another it was seven hours and ten minutes; in another it was seven hours and a half. In the first series .014 grammes of metallic iron was in each case added, in the form of pyrophosphate, perchloride and protoactate respectively. In the second series various other preparations were used, the amount of metallic iron being in each case equivalent to .0077 grammes.

Other experiments were made with the white of an egg, the amount of albumen precipitated by boiling after digestion being estimated.

The outcome of these experiments is that organic salts of iron seriously check the peptic digestion. Probably the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice displaces the organic acids from the iron salts and so is used up, while the free organic acids in the digestive fluids are far less powerful digestive agents than the hydrochloric acid.

But this cannot be the only cause at work, for perchloride and phosphate also tend to hinder digestion. Even reduced iron has a similar effect for it partially dissolves in the juices forming chlorides. Its solubility, like that of the phosphate, is, however, not very great. Ferrous salts seem to interfere less with digestion than ferric salts.

CALIFORNIA OLIVE OIL.

Shipped in Immense Tanks, Like So Much Petroleum.

The sale of olive oil constitutes one of the largest items of revenue to California. Although olives have been grown there for more than half a century, the quantity of fruit sold outside of the state before 1900 was insignificant.

Forming themselves into an association, a number of the large growers have taken steps since then to compete with Italy and France in selling their product, and have succeeded to such an extent that, according to Moody's Magazine, they manufacture a large proportion of the 250,000 gallons of olive oil at present produced in this country.

For the Eastern trade the California association has established an extensive bottling plant in New England to which the oil is actually shipped by the carload in tanks, like so much petroleum. One of the large olive orchards alone contains no less than 120,000 trees, which will give an idea of the magnitude of olive growing.

Slang of Other Days.

Slang has always been a fruitful source for the expansion of language, and instances may be multiplied of words now respectable which were once tabooed as vulgarisms.

But, on the other hand, there have been many slang phrases in use for centuries which have never become acceptable to the purists. As long ago as 1750 the celebrated letter writer Horace Walpole used to speak of "sitting guzzling" and getting "drunk as an owl."

Then again, in the diary of one of the most prominent women writers of the eighteenth century, Frances Burney, are found good slang phrases of the American college girl of today, as for instance: "I sneaked out," "Did you ever know such a toad?" and "I had a vile cold."

The Perfect Face

In a perfect face every feature should bear a certain proportion to every other feature. The width of the face should be equal to five eyes. The distance between the eyes should be exactly equal to one eye.

Another important relation is that between the eyes and the mouth. The width of the eyes should be equal to two thirds that of the mouth. The nose should be equal in length to the height of the forehead, of a regular shape and precisely defined outline.—Health.

Lost His "Mr."

For a man of mature years to have the distinction of Mr. removed from his name would, no doubt be a severe punishment. Yet this was what the Puritans inflicted on Josias Plastow, and all because he stole four baskets of corn from the Indians. And then after poor Josias was Mister no longer, the hard hearted founders of Massachusetts were not satisfied, but fined him five pounds sterling and made him return eight baskets of corn to the offended red men in place of the four he had taken.

In the ruins of Mitla, Mexico, is the Death Column. The Indians say they can tell the number of years a person will live by the number of spans between his finger tips when he embraces the column.

Hardly any girl puts up a resistance that causes a man to miss her mouth and land a kiss on the back of her neck.

The time of digestion was in one case three hours and ten minutes; in another it was seven hours and ten minutes; in another it was seven hours and a half. In the first series .014 grammes of metallic iron was in each case added, in the form of pyrophosphate, perchloride and protoactate respectively. In the second series various other preparations were used, the amount of metallic iron being in each case equivalent to .0077 grammes.

Other experiments were made with the white of an egg, the amount of albumen precipitated by boiling after digestion being estimated.

The outcome of these experiments is that organic salts of iron seriously check the peptic digestion. Probably the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice displaces the organic acids from the iron salts and so is used up, while the free organic acids in the digestive fluids are far less powerful digestive agents than the hydrochloric acid.

But this cannot be the only cause at work, for perchloride and phosphate also tend to hinder digestion. Even reduced iron has a similar effect for it partially dissolves in the juices forming chlorides. Its solubility, like that of the phosphate, is, however, not very great. Ferrous salts seem to interfere less with digestion than ferric salts.

CALIFORNIA OLIVE OIL.

Shipped in Immense Tanks, Like So Much Petroleum.

The sale of olive oil constitutes one of the largest items of revenue to California. Although olives have been grown there for more than half a century, the quantity of fruit sold outside of the state before 1900 was insignificant.

Forming themselves into an association, a number of the large growers have taken steps since then to compete with Italy and France in selling their product, and have succeeded to such an extent that, according to Moody's Magazine, they manufacture a large proportion of the 250,000 gallons of olive oil at present produced in this country.

For the Eastern trade the California association has established an extensive bottling plant in New England to which the oil is actually shipped by the carload in tanks, like so much petroleum. One of the large olive orchards alone contains no less than 120,000 trees, which will give an idea of the magnitude of olive growing.

Slang of Other Days.

Slang has always been a fruitful source for the expansion of language, and instances may be multiplied of words now respectable which were once tabooed as vulgarisms.

But, on the other hand, there have been many slang phrases in use for centuries which have never become acceptable to the purists. As long ago as 1750 the celebrated letter writer Horace Walpole used to speak of "sitting guzzling" and getting "drunk as an owl."

Then again, in the diary of one of the most prominent women writers of the eighteenth century, Frances Burney, are found good slang phrases of the American college girl of today, as for instance: "I sneaked out," "Did you ever know such a toad?" and "I had a vile cold."

The Perfect Face

In a perfect face every feature should bear a certain proportion to every other feature. The width of the face should be equal to five eyes. The distance between the eyes should be exactly equal to one eye.

Another important relation is that between the eyes and the mouth. The width of the eyes should be equal to two thirds that of the mouth. The nose should be equal in length to the height of the forehead, of a regular shape and precisely defined outline.—Health.

Lost His "Mr."

For a man of mature years to have the distinction of Mr. removed from his name would, no doubt be a severe punishment. Yet this was what the Puritans inflicted on Josias Plastow, and all because he stole four baskets of corn from the Indians. And then after poor Josias was Mister no longer, the hard hearted founders of Massachusetts were not satisfied, but fined him five pounds sterling and made him return eight baskets of corn to the offended red men in place of the four he had taken.

In the ruins of Mitla, Mexico, is the Death Column. The Indians say they can tell the number of years a person will live by the number of spans between his finger tips when he embraces the column.

Hardly any girl puts up a resistance that causes a man to miss her mouth and land a kiss on the back of her neck.

AROUND THE GLOBE FOR A WIFE.

Le Roy Remington was a young globe trotter. He had no idea that he was going to and fro on the earth hunting for something, but he was. All men from the time they are old enough to marry are hunting for wives, and all women from a similar period of their lives are hunting for husbands.

As I was saying, Le Roy Remington was crossing continents and oceans, as he thought, to get rid of being bored. Had he been obliged to work for a living he would not have been bored so much. Had he been married he would not have suffered under many irritations and annoyances, he might even have wished for a return of the freedom of bachelorhood, but he would not have been bored.

One day Remington was crossing "the plains" of America somewhere between Omaha and San Francisco when the train stopped. The weather was warm and the windows were open. A train from the opposite direction came rolling along with diminishing speed. It brought the girl Remington was looking for and stopped with her directly beside his window. Her window, too, was raised, and the two sat face to face within a few feet of each other. Remington looked at the girl and the girl looked at Remington. He made the most of the brief time allotted him. The girl lowered her eyes. Then there was a toot-toot ahead and Remington's train moved onward.

Remington was looking for this very girl, but he didn't know it till he was on the Pacific ocean midway between San Francisco and Hongkong.

By the time he stood again on dry land he had made up his mind that he must find the girl on the other side of the globe.

He went to Paris and from Paris started for London. On a railway train some twenty miles west of Paris, while stopping at a station, a train pulled past, and at a window in this train was the girl he had discovered he wanted.

It took Remington just thirty seconds to gather up his belongings and leave the train. During this brief interval it had occurred to him that the girl might be going around the world and he had better proceed westward in the hope of meeting her once more and at a standstill. But he dismissed the idea as ridiculous.

The train that had passed was bound for Paris, and Remington took the next one for the same place. His trunk went on to London. But he cared nothing for that. He could buy trunks and their contents, but he couldn't buy the girl who was going to Paris, though he could buy any one of dozens of other girls. She was surely going to Paris. All Americans who are approaching Paris are going there. And ten to one she would stay awhile there. So Remington returned to Paris and when he got there hunted through the registers of the hotels where Americans were accustomed to stay. At the Hotel Meurice he found the names "Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Avery, San Francisco, Cal., U. S. A., and Miss Edith Avery." The clerk told him that they had arrived at a time that corresponded with the arrival of the train on which he had seen the girl he was hunting.

While he was racking his brains how to secure an introduction he happened to meet his intimate friend Philpot. He asked Philpot to dine with him the same evening, intending to talk the matter over with him. No; Philpot's friends, the Averys of San Francisco, had just arrived and he was engaged to drive with them. What luck! Would Philpot introduce him? Certainly! He would make an engagement to take him to call. They parted, and the next morning Philpot told Remington that he had made the engagement for five days ahead, the first evening the Averys were disengaged. Remington passed five weary, waiting days and on the afternoon of the fifth received a note from Philpot to say that the Averys had left Paris unexpectedly the day before.

Remington was crushed. He found Philpot, only to learn that the Averys had gone eastward to Hongkong to sail for San Francisco immediately on arrival at that port. Remington inquired the date of sailing of the steamer they would likely take and found he would not have time to reach it himself. He could go westward and reach San Francisco earlier than the party going eastward.

THE BIBLE

The BOOK OF JUDGES

Year before the common year of Christ 1443

1. And Samson went down to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines.

2. And he came up and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines; now therefore get her for me to wife.

5. Then went Sampson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath; and behold, a young lion roared against him.

6. And the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hands, but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

8. And after a time he came to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion; and behold there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion.

9. And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat.

10. So his father went down unto the woman; and Sampson made there a feast; for so used the young men do.

11. And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

12. And Samson said unto them, I will now put forth a riddle unto you; if ye can certainly declare it me within seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty sheets and thirty change of garments.

13. But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets and thirty change of garments, and they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14. And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

15. And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire; have ye called us to take that we have? Is it not so?

16. And Samson's wife went before him and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not; thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me, and he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

17. And she wept before him seven days while their feast lasted; and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she lay sore upon him; and she told the riddle to the children of her people.

18. And the spirit of the Lord came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their spoil, and gave them which expounded the riddle. And his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house.

20. But Samson's wife was given to his companion, whom he had used as a friend.

21. But her father said, I verily thought that hadst utterly hated her; therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? Take her, I pray thee, instead of her.

22. And Samson went and caught three hundred foxes, and took fire brands, and turned tail to tail and put a fire brand in the midst between two tails.

23. And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks, and also the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives.

24. Then the Philistines said, who hath done this? And they answered Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife and given her to his companion. And the Philistines came up, and burnt her and her father with fire.

25. And Samson said unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease.

26. And he smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter. And he went down and dwelt in the top of the Rock Etam.

27. And he was sore athirst, and called on the Lord, and said, Thou hast given this great deliverance into the hands of thy servant; and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hands of the uncircumcised.

28. But God cleave a hollow place that was in the jaw, and there came water therewith; and when he had drunk, his spirit came again and he revived. Wherefore he called the name thereof En-hakkore, which is in Leti unto this day.

29. Then went Samson to Gaza.

30. And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither and they compassed him in; and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were quiet all the night, saying, In the morning when it is day we shall kill him.

31. And Samson lay till midnight and arose as midnight, and took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of a hill that is before Hebron.

32. And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

33. And the lords of the Philistines came unto her, and said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to afflict him; and we will give thee everyone of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

34. And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies; tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

35. And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

36. And she said unto him, Now canst thou say I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? Thou hast mocked me three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

37. And it came to pass when she pressed him daily with the words

38. That he told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon my head; for I have been a Nazirite unto God, if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

39. And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath showed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hands.

40. And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head, and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

41. And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson, and for my two eyes.

42. But the Philistines took him and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of brass; and he did grind in the prison house.

43. And it came to pass when their hearts were merry, that they said, call for Samson that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison house; and he made them sport; and they set him between the pillars.

44. And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

45. Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women that beheld while Samson made sport.

46. And Samson called unto the Lord and said, O Lord God, remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the burying place of Manoah.

47. And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood, and on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left.

48. And Samson said let me die with the Philistines and he bowed himself with all his might; and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in his life.

49. Then his brothers and all the house of his father came he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as other times before, and shake myself. And he wisht not that the Lord was departed from him.

Mr. Dunlavy received a letter this morning stating that George W. Drewry, of Memphis, Tenn., died last Sunday morning. Mr. Drewry was a traveling salesman for a Tennessee Drug Firm and had been a regular visitor here for many years and had many friends here, of whom perhaps Ed Kleinbub was the best.

Ten years ago today the thermometer stood at sixteen degrees below zero. At that time there was from ten to fifteen inches of snow on the ground. This morning at five o'clock it was only 22 degrees above zero and there was no snow whatever. And yet there are a few people who will insist that our winters are not changing.

Another DePauw graduate has lately stepped out into the limelight of politics. C. R. Cameron, of Indianapolis, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Indianapolis City Police Court. He has practiced law in that city since he was graduated from DePauw in 1886. In his announcement he has some pronounced views regarding the work of a city police judge. He agrees to remain on the bench or at chambers the entire day if necessary.

The New York Central lines west of Buffalo handled in January 785,274 loaded cars, an increase of 69,366 loaded cars over the corresponding month last year. The Big Four lines handled 187,895 of that number, an increase this year of 21,543 loaded cars. All Big Four lines west of Buffalo except the Michigan Central show some increase this year. The Pennsylvania on Friday last placed an order for forty-six more steel coaches, which will come to the Western line and when in service it will make an equipment of 422 steel coaches on the Pennsylvania line.

It begins to seem like old times to see a number of Italians strung out in a line walking down the center of the street. It has been some little time since this has been seen around Greencastle, but the nice weather today brought several of the foreigners to town and these made their rounds of the stores in their usual way—Stoically marching in single file.

The expected zero weather which was promised us by the U. S. Weather Bureau for today, did not show up. The thermometer stood ten degrees higher at seven o'clock this morning than it did at the same time yesterday and the prospects are that the coldest day of this "snap" was experienced yesterday when the thermometer went down to 10 above. The cold wind which made out-door traveling so disagreeable yesterday has disappeared and today was another ideal spring day.

Much interest has been aroused among the Interurban employees as to the future T. H. I. and E. Superintendent. No announcement has been made since Mr. Morgan's resignation was accepted and for nearly two weeks now the road has been running without a western superintendent. It is the opinion of several of the men employed here that Mr. Morgan's successor will not be appointed until the officials have time to consider every man they have who are eligible to this position.

John Smith of Roachdale was here this morning on his way home from Hopkinsville, Ky., where he has been in the interest of his brother, who is in jail there. Mr. Wilson and another man had trouble in Hopkinsville and Smith shot the other man three times with a 48-caliber revolver. Each bullet went through the man but he is still alive and it is believed that he will get well. Wilson alleges that he shot in self-defense and that the man was advancing upon him with an open knife when he shot.

The trouble grew out of a dispute regarding a hotel property which was owned by Wilson and rented by the other man.

IS A PAYING BUSINESS

According to the census report for 1890, the Adams Express Co., then capitalized for $12,000,000, had an actual investment in equipment of $1,128,195. For years it paid 8 per cent on its capital stock, equal to 80 per cent on the actual value of property actually used in its business. In 1908 it distributed $12,000,000 of its own bonds to its stockholders, secured by the deposit in trust of the surplus fund not used in its express business, and reduced its dividend rate to 4 per cent. By 1904 the dividend rate had increased to 10 per share (10 per cent) in addition to which each stockholder was receiving 4 per cent interest on an equal amount of bonds which he had received without paying therefor. In 1907, $24,000,000 additional was distributed to stockholders in the form of bonds secured by the constantly increasing surplus. It thus appears that the rates exacted from the public by the Adams Express Company have not only sufficed to pay a liberal return upon the capital actually used in the business, but also of late to pay 10 per cent upon several times that amount in stock, and in addition to accumulate a surplus of $36,000,000 available for distribution to stockholders, of which $24,000,000 seems to have been accumulated within a period of nine years.
